

LEAVE TARIFF REVISION TO DEMOCRAT SAYS PRES. TAFT

Submits Last General Message, Touching on Vital Legislation Needed; Supports Sherman Antitrust Measure

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Taft will make no further effort to have congress reduce the tariff. In a "general" message to congress, submitted today, the president clearly indicated his intention of leaving further tariff revision to Mr. Wilson and the congress just elected.

Now that a new congress has been elected on a platform of tariff for revenue only rather than a protective tariff and is to revise the tariff on that basis, said the president, "It is needless for me to occupy the time of congress with arguments or recommendations in favor of a protective tariff."

This message, the second submitted by the president since the present session began, will be his last of a general character. It dealt with every department of the government except the state department, recommended much of the legislation which Mr. Taft previously had urged upon the attention of congress, and took up and discussed at length several subjects comparatively new.

Mr. Taft came out strongly against independence for the Philippines. He posed, he said, in a bill now before congress. He deprecated the new policy of one hitherto a year instead of two; and indorsed again the scheme of currency reform proposed by the national monetary commission.

Conservation was lightly touched, the president recommending the amendment of bills now before congress so that water power companies which dam navigable rivers will contribute to the improvement of these streams.

appointment as major-general with the provision that he become chief of engineers when the term of the present incumbent expires. He made only a brief reference to the dispute with Great Britain over the Panama canal act and said that when a formal protest was lodged against that act it would be taken up by the United States.

The army the president discussed at some length. He praised the army legislation of the last congress but said that provision should be made by law so that the nation's foreign regiments may be always maintained upon a war footing; and he urged the passage of the pending militia-pay bill, designed to make service in the militia more enticing, and showed that the home army will be nothing more than a "skeleton" until congress provides that it be concentrated in fewer posts than are now maintained. He urged also the passage of another bill now before congress, designed to raise quickly a volunteer army in case of war.

Against Philippine Autonomy.

President Taft did not approve the proposal for immediate autonomy for the Philippines and independence in eight years, a proposal in a bill pending in congress.

In the Philippine islands we have embarked upon an experiment unprecedented in dealing with dependent peoples," said President Taft. "We are developing there conditions exclusively for their own welfare. Through

Springs Detective Nabs Two Alleged Hat Check Thieves

Not knowing that they were operating in the presence of a detective, two alleged hat check thieves, George E. Brownell of New York, general solicitor of the Erie railroad; George F. Conn of Scranton, general manager of an Erie subsidiary, the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Electric railroad; and Charles F. Pryor of Scranton, were examined during the day.

Mr. Pryor testified to having been present when the "silent party" assignment was drawn up and signed by E. J. Williams in Scranton. In this paper Mr. Williams purported to assign a one-third interest in his culm bank property to a "silent party" alleged to have been Judge Archibald.

He placed them under arrest and turned them over to the Pueblo authorities. So far as can be learned early this morning the alleged theft was committed in El Paso county. Sergeant Henderson has telegraphed the Pueblo police to issue warrants for the men and hold them until an officer can arrive there to bring them to Colorado Springs. It is believed by the authorities that these men are members of a gang that regularly beat their way on trains in this section of the state by stealing hat checks given passengers in exchange for tickets.

Religion in Home No Longer Taught Says Gov. Marshall

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Governor Marshall of Indiana, vice president-elect, who is a delegate to the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, in session here today, devoted his address tonight chiefly to the family life and the Sunday school. He said Sunday schools take children through the scriptures with a "hop, skip and jump," but that religious instruction in the family was no longer given, and children were supposed to get their knowledge of the Bible in Sunday school. This evasion of duty of parents to instruct their children in their religion, the governor said, resulted in irreligion and in wayward children.

The relation of young people's organization to Christian unity was Governor Marshall's topic.

"When Robert Ralke started the Sunday school, a little over a century ago, he did not have in mind the releasing of parents from their obligations to give religious instruction to their children," said Governor Marshall.

Governor Marshall said the Sunday school is intended to round out family devotions, not to take their place. In four years as an executive, he said, many had come to him seeking leniency for wayward sons or daughters. If these persons had seen their duty to lay down fixed rules of life and to teach the higher law of living in their homes, God would not have punished them in the falling away of their children, he said.

LIE PASSED AT ARCHBOLD TRIAL

HOUSE SCORES POINT IN IMPEACHMENT CASE

Testimony Given That Judge Was "Silent Partner" in Coal Deal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The "exclamation" by W. A. May of Scranton, that "if that's the claim, it's a lie," thrust into the routine testimony in the impeachment trial of Judge Robert W. Archibald, of the commerce court, gave the senate a moment of excitement today and brought down upon Mr. May's head the censure of Senator Bacon, the presiding officer.

Mr. May's exclamation was directed toward the managers for the house, who are conducting the prosecution of Judge Archibald for alleged misuse of his judicial power.

The attorney A. S. Worthington, for Judge Archibald, was cross-examining Mr. May, who is general manager of the Erie railroad's subsidiary, the Hillside Coal and Iron company, as to his motive for recalling a contract of sale of the Katydid culm bank, which had been sent to a prospective buyer secured through E. J. Williams, the business associate of Judge Archibald.

Mr. May claimed he recalled the contract because he received letters containing notices of claims by others to an interest in the bank.

Witness Gets Excited.

Mr. Worthington remarked to the witness that the claim had been made that these letters were fictitious and that the real reason for withdrawing the contract was a tip about a Washington investigation into Judge Archibald's conduct.

"If that claim is made, it is a lie," shouted Mr. May.

Mr. Bacon cautioned him and Mr. May apologized.

George F. Brownell of New York, general solicitor of the Erie railroad; George F. Conn of Scranton, general manager of an Erie subsidiary, the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley Electric railroad; and Charles F. Pryor of Scranton, were examined during the day.

Mr. Pryor testified to having been present when the "silent party" assignment was drawn up and signed by E. J. Williams in Scranton. In this paper Mr. Williams purported to assign a one-third interest in his culm bank property to a "silent party" alleged to have been Judge Archibald.

GOVERNOR IS AWAY, APPOINTED DEMOCRAT

George B. Thatcher Is Named as Attorney General of Nevada

CARSON CITY, Nev., Dec. 6.—In the absence of Governor Oddie from the state, Lieutenant and Acting Governor Gilbert C. Ross today appointed George B. Thatcher of Tonopah attorney general of Nevada for the unexpired term of the late Attorney General, Cleveland H. Baker, who died Thursday. The commission was signed and delivered this evening.

Governor Oddie is a Republican and it was expected he would appoint a Republican to succeed the late Democratic attorney general. Lieutenant Governor Ross is a Democrat and his appointment is a Democrat, having been a rival of C. H. Baker for the Democratic nomination for attorney general two years ago.

Governor Oddie is enroute home from the governor's conference at Richmond, Va.

Lieutenant Governor Ross said that the family of the late attorney general yesterday requested that he make the appointment of a successor. This request was joined in by Raymond T. Baker, brother, Mrs. George V. Baker, mother, and Mrs. C. H. Baker, surviving wife, who urged that the lieutenant governor fill the vacancy.

When the lieutenant governor demurred on the score of showing respect by delaying action, he was assured that in no way could he show greater respect than by complying with the request. Today a telegram confirming the verbal request was received from the coast.

BALKANS WORK OUT PEACE DETAILS

Greeks Continue Campaign on Island of Chios and City of Janina

Search Foreign Steamers

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Pending the assembling of the peace delegates in London, the Balkan allies are occupied in preparing a joint draft on the demands to be made upon Turkey and it is understood, exchanging communications with a view to arriving at an agreement defining their own mutual obligations.

The position of Greece in refusing to sign the armistice remains unchanged. The Greeks are said to be continuing their campaign on the island of Chios and at Janina, and their ships are closely searching for foreign steamers found between the Dardanelles and Smyrna. It is reported from Vienna that Serbia has set up batteries on the Danube opposite the Hungarian town of Orsova.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Telegraphing from Constantinople the correspondent of the Daily Express asserts that Vienna had been chosen as the scene for peace negotiations between Turkey and Greece. He says the Turkish ambassador at Vienna has received full power to negotiate with the Greeks and that he will be assisted by Osman Nishmi Pasha, the Turkish ambassador to Germany.

Bulgarians Establish Port.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Sofia says that Bulgaria will devote all her financial effort to the establishment of a great town and seaport at Orfano, southeast of Serres, and the building of a railway straight down the Struma valley to the sea, placing Sofia in direct and easy communication with the Mediterranean.

If this railway should be built, the correspondent adds, Saloniki would lose much of its importance. A dispatch to believe that a consociatory disposition prevails at Athens, and that Greece will sign the armistice before the peace conference meets.

$30,000,000 MERGER OF CRIPPLE MINES NOW IN PROGRESS

DENVER, Dec. 6.—A telegram received by a local stock and bond house from New York said it was reported there on good authority that an announcement would be made next week of plans to merge the big producing mines of the Cripple Creek district into a $30,000,000 holding corporation.

The El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company, which has undergone several important changes during the last year, is supposed to be the leading spirit in the plans now said to be under way, and which have been rumored at intervals for several months.

Last June Joseph Walker & Sons, an international banking house, with offices in New York, bought out the holdings of the faction in the El Paso headed by S. S. Bernard.

That was followed by the removal of the headquarters of the company from Colorado Springs to Denver.

M'NAMARAS HAD UNIONS FOOLED

WITNESS SAYS THOUGHT THEM INNOCENT

Redden, One of Defendants, Tells of Near Split With International

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 6.—Seven words embraced in the phrase "Pretty hard to do anything to it," were produced by the government at the trial of the accused "bomb plotters" today as its evidence that Herman G. Seiffert, Milwaukee, was implicated in the McNamara dynamite conspiracy.

Seiffert, as one of the 41 labor union officials charged with using explosives on nonunion work, had waited weeks to testify and he was on the stand less than 20 minutes explaining what he meant by that phrase.

About a month before an explosion in Milwaukee on March 16, 1911, when an unloading hoist and a steamer near the dock were damaged by dynamite with $50,000 loss, Seiffert took the place of William H. Redden, business agent of the Iron Workers union, who was sick for four days. During that time Seiffert wrote a letter to John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Iron Workers' union at Indianapolis.

Explains What He Meant.

Using that phrase, the witness said he referred to efforts to unionize the job for McNamara required reports from all local unions as to prospective work for members of the union. Seiffert said he first learned of the explosion from newspapers the following day. Orle E. McManigal confessed to having actually placed the explosive.

Redden, also a defendant, testified that the members of the Milwaukee union wanted to work for the contractor on the local job, but Frank M. Ryan, president of the International union, forbade them to do so unless the contractor was induced to employ only union men on jobs throughout the country.

This resulted in a proposal that the local union withdraw from the international, said the witness, and an appeal was taken to allow unions everywhere to work locally regardless of the general strike called in 1905 and which still is on.

Did you know before the Milwaukee explosion that it was going to occur?" asked Attorney William M. Harding, for the defense.

"I did not."

Aid for McNamara.

Redden said in response to demands from the Indianapolis headquarters that he sent information about construction work at Clinton, Iowa, which afterwards was blown up. He said

HAWTHORNE HAD SET OF DUMMY OFFICERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The government today introduced testimony to discredit portions of letters and circulars describing favorably the various Hawthorne mines in the trial of Julian Hawthorne, Josiah Quincy, Albert Freeman and Dr. William J. Morton, accused of making fraudulent use of the mails in promoting Canadian mining claims.

Federal attorneys sought to show also that "dummy" officers were elected in several companies.

William F. Wilkinson, a London mining engineer, was shown a Hawthorne letter in which he was purported to have offered "anything in reason" for a majority interest. He denied ever having offered to buy a majority of Temagami stock. He had written to Dr. Morton about such representations, he said. One of his letters was introduced showing he had objected to the use of his name "in such an impudent fashion."

Refutes Alleged Statement.

Woodford Brooks, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., and Fort Worth, president of the Temagami-Cobalt company, testified regarding a report he was purported to have made to Hawthorne regarding the property. He said he did not make the report and that the only time he visited a mine was when he was a boy.

"I forget whether it was an asbestos mine or a coal mine," he added.

Mr. Brooks said, Freeman, in 1907, asked him to become president and he did so, holding the position three months. He said he put up no money, visited the office "for a short time once a week" and that his duties were "signing checks, principally."

"Believed He Was Official."

William F. Melhuish, automobile salesman, testified he "believed" he was secretary-treasurer of the Temagami-Cobalt mines. He "did not know" how he came to have this office, he said, and he put up no money and owned no stock.

George H. Gley, secretary of the New York Electric society, testified he came a director of the Temagami-Cobalt property at Hawthorne's request but resigned because he objected to his electric society position being used in Hawthorne's literature.

GOVERNORS FAVOR PLAN TO ELIMINATE FARM MORTGAGE

Last Day of Conference Is Fought With Stormy Scenes Centering Around Gov. Blease for Statements on Lynch Law

RICHLAND, Va., Dec. 6.—The fifth annual governors' conference, which began this afternoon to meet informally tomorrow with President Taft at Washington, and discuss rural credit, its and to meet formally next year at Colorado Springs, Colo.

In its lying hours it adopted a resolution, which in the opinion of many delegates, sounds the knell of the time-honored mortgage on the farm and presages the advent of a new financial era for farmers. The government believes their resolution will lead to the establishment of a new system of state banks governed by a uniform state law.

These banks, under the resolution, would be financed by private capital and would operate under legislation sufficiently elastic to enable them to issue bonds for short or long terms upon American farms in lieu of mortgages. The bonds, in turn, in the opinion of the governors, would be listed under state supervision, on the stock exchanges of the world.

France Would Invest.

Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France, addressed the conference on this topic as President Taft's representative, and said the thirty people of France and other European countries were ready to invest their savings in these securities.

The resolution, under which it is hoped to bring this about, indorses a plan of financing rural credits, set to be detailed, but similar to those abroad. It provides for the organization of a committee of five governors to draft such a plan, and a bill legalizing it. This bill must be submitted to the governor of each state of the union, and, upon approval of two-thirds, shall be sent to the legislatures of the various states, for enactment.

The committee was not appointed today, but Governor Plaford of Maine, chairman of the last session, was authorized to name it later. He probably will do so tomorrow in Washington.

The governors, or many of them, will leave here tomorrow in a special train, for Washington. Before adjourning, the governors will discuss the jointly appointed allies of Wiley of Michigan, Wis. secretary and treasurer, and John Franklin Fort, former governor of New Jersey, manager.

Mr. Fort will have charge of the program of the next year.

A sweeping resolution, repudiating the remarks of Governor Blease of South Carolina, in support of lynch law, was adopted today by a vote of 14 to 1.

Governor Blease, defending himself, said, "I am not a lynch law man. I am a man of the constitution. I say now to all the governors of all the states and to all the people of the United States what I said then."

The conference hall was thrown into an uproar.

Governors of Alabama, Wyoming, Missouri, New York, Maryland and Wisconsin denounced the South Carolina in strong terms for his utterances. Governors of North Carolina, Arkansas, Connecticut and Idaho voted against the resolution.

Resolution Adopted.

The resolution adopted was presented by Governor Mann of Virginia as an amendment to the one offered by Governor O'Neal of Alabama. It reads as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sentiment of the governors' conference in session at Richmond, Va., today, that the whole power of the several states should be used whenever necessary to protect persons accused of crimes on sworn affidavits, and to provide, speedily, orderly and impartial laws, for the protection of life and property by duly enforced and respected by all the people."

"I hold in my hands," said Governor

DOUBT SURROUNDS DAVIS' CONFESSION

Dispatches State That no Such Man Lives in Peoria, Oregon

Fearing death with the burden of murder on his conscience, John Peter Davis, 79 years old, confessed several weeks ago in Peoria, Ore., that he had killed William Atcheson, nearly 37 years ago, near Castle Rock, according to a letter received by Sheriff John Anderson of Douglas county. The letter bore the signature of Dr. Graham, said to be an Oregon physician. This information was turned over to the district attorney's office in Colorado Springs.

An element of doubt as to the authenticity of the confession and mystery as to the identity of Dr. Graham, entered the story late last night when telegraphic advices were received from Albany, Ore., to the effect that interviews and telephonic communication with the settlement of Peoria and the surrounding district disclose no person by the name of John Peter Davis, who is said to have confessed to the murder of William Atcheson in Castle Rock in 1876.

According to physicians in Albany and Peoria, the dispatches state, there is no Dr. Graham practicing in that vicinity and no physician can be found who has a record of an aged man seriously ill. The proprietor of the country store at Peoria, last night told representatives of the Associated Press that no John Peter Davis has lived in Peoria during the past 20 years.

The letter received by Sheriff Anderson from the mysterious Dr. Graham was given to Dr. George Atcheson, a physician of Denver, who is a brother of the murdered man, and his father who also lives there. The description is so accurate that they were convinced that there is no mistake in the identity of the murderer.

According to information from Castle Rock, the details of the tragedy, in which Davis was supposed to have confessed, are as follows:

Peoria is a timbered hamlet, and Atcheson, aged 32, who was learning to be a barber, got into an argument one day in the spring of 1876, over the correct pronunciation of "Newfoundland." Davis, it is said, shot and killed Atcheson, the murder taking place in the bunk house of the old Horn lumber mill, nine miles south of Castle Rock.

Davis disappeared that night and all traces of him were lost in a blinding snow storm.

Traces of Castle Rock recall the tragedy. There was one eyewitness of the murder, a man named Shumans, but his whereabouts now is unknown. One member of the coroner's jury is still living.

There is no official record of the crime in the court records of Douglas county, according to Sheriff Anderson, and the coroner's records also are missing. The physician who attended Atcheson is dead.

MEXICAN REBELS DESTROY VILLAGE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 6.—The town of Valle Del Bravo, state of Mexico, was practically destroyed today by Zapata rebels under the command of Genovevo De La O because the inhabitants refused to deliver over to them 19 young women residents.

The inhabitants anticipating that the rebels would wreak vengeance on them fled to the surrounding hills, leaving the town entirely deserted. They are said to be suffering from cold and hunger.

The rebels appeared before the town and sent a demand to the civil prefect for the delivery of the girls, declaring that in case of refusal they would sack the place.

After consulting with the leading citizens the prefect advised them to refuse the rebels' demand and told them they had better take to flight. Few of them when they left took more than a blanket and a limited supply of food with them. A body of rebels who attacked the mining town of Temascaltepec, near the capital, the capital of the state of Mexico, was repulsed by the rural guards with a loss of 20 killed and many wounded.

The federal casualties have not been reported.

HATS FROM SHAVINGS

From Harper's Weekly.

Many of the handsome summer hats worn by the ladies are made of shavings. It is said that the finest examples of this industry are the product of Japan, where these wooden ribbons appear in diverse forms, certain of which possess almost the sheen and delicacy of satin, while others show a decided resemblance of soft and dainty crepes.

It appears that only about 15 per cent of the chip is exported in the form of wooden ribbons, the remainder being worked into what is known to commerce as "chip board." This is utilized in the same manner as straw braid—that is, for hats, baskets, and similar articles.

The exports from Japan in a single year have approximated a million dollars, the United States being a large buyer. The trade is steadily increasing, inasmuch as the industry is a comparatively new one. While willow is considerably used in Germany, the Japanese manufacturers employ European poplar, spruce, Chinese cypress, cherry, buckeye, paulownia, false hickory and other kinds of wood. The chip is produced by planing with special tools, the shavings being about 15 inches long and one and a half inches wide.

The product is very easily dyed, and it is of such thickness and flexibility that the daintiest effects in millinery goods can be obtained.

HANDKERCHIEF FLIRTATION

From Answers, London.

It may not be generally known that a handkerchief language exists which is extremely simple, as well as being the language of exceeding excellence for the lover. Here it is:

Should a man or damsel press the handkerchief against the lips, it signifies that they wish to become acquainted with one another. To let it fall is a stroke, further, and means, "Shall we be friends?" If held to the right cheek the answer is "Yes;" to the left cheek, "No." But should either hold it in both hands, it simply shows indifference.

However, by holding it in the left hand, the girl who does not wish to go any further in the matter, speaks.

LEAVE TARIFF

The unifying forces of a common education, of commercial and economic development, and of gradual participation in local self-government, we are endeavoring to evolve a homogenous people fit to determine, when the time arrives, their own destiny. We are seeking to arouse a national spirit and not, as under the older colonial theory, to suppress such a spirit. But our work is far from done. Our duty to the Philippines is far from discharged.

For educational, sanitary and political reasons, the president said, this country should not consent to grant independence at this time.

"If the task we have undertaken is higher than that assumed by other nations," continued the president, "its accomplishment must demand even more patience. To confer independence upon the Philippines now, is therefore, to subject the great mass of their people to the dominance of an oligarchical and probably, exploiting minority. Such a course will be as cruel to those people as it would be shameful to us."

In addition to his advice in regard to legislation and his opposition to pending measures, the president discussed the prosperity of the nation, its financial condition and the proposed system of a national budget, showing proposed expenditures and revenues, and called attention to the balance in the general fund of the treasury, of about $170,000,000. His remarks on the budget system, he said, would be submitted to congress later, accompanied by a model budget.

Though dumbly, the words, "I wish to get rid of you." Or, on the other hand, if she folds the dainty bit of cambric, it signifies her wish to speak. Again, she may hold it at the opposite corners, which means just "Wait." By throwing it over her right shoulder, she gives permission to be followed.

Flipping it against the cheek is a declaration of love, while drawing it through the hands is one of intense dislike. Wrapping it round the first finger betokens an engagement, round the middle finger, marriage.

HOW NAPOLEON APPEARED

From the London Chronicle

A vivid sketch of Napoleon in Riba was drawn by Lord John Russell. "Napoleon was dressed in a green coat, with a hat in his hand, very much as he is painted; but, excepting the resemblance of dress, I had a very mistaken idea of him from his portrait. He appears very short, which is partly owing to his being very fat, his hands and legs being quite swollen and unwieldy. This makes him appear awkward, and not unlike the whole-length figure of Gibbon, the historian. Recall this, instead of the bold-marked countenance that I expected, he has full cheeks and a rather turn-up nose, which, to bring in another historian, makes the shape of his face resemble the portraits of Hume. He has a dusky gray eye, which would be called vicious in a horse, and the shape of his mouth expresses contempt and decision.

SENOR AND MME. DOMICIO DA GAMA.
 Mrs. Arthur H. Hearn and Senor da Gama, the Brazilian ambassador to the United States, were recently married in New York.

In the absence of Mr. Burris no confirmation of the report can be obtained, but the advice from New York indicates that the negotiations which are expected to result in the merger are well under way.

No confirmation of the above report could be secured in this city last night.

LIE PASSED

When Senator Bacon ruled that they could offer in evidence the deposition given by E. J. Williams to Attorney Whitley Brown of the department of justice last April to contradict evidence Williams has given the senate. Attorneys for Judge Archibald fought the point stubbornly.

The Katydid deal was the subject of the examination of George F. Brownell, general solicitor of the Erie and Hillsdale Coal company. He told of Judge Archibald calling at his office, and testified Judge Archibald said in substance that he was interested in clearing up the title to the property and that Brownell was the only official of the Hillsdale company he knew with the exception of Mr. May. Mr. Brownell said he introduced him to Vice-president Richardson.

Representative Clayton was about to ask that a personal attachment be made for Richardson when Senator Bacon stated he was informed Richardson was in a New York hospital. The matter went over until tomorrow.

M'NAMARA HAD

McNamara also required him to forward newspaper accounts of explosions at Milwaukee and Green Bay, Wis. Whether the defendants helped raise a fund for the defense of the McNamaras at Los Angeles and whether they first attempted to assist in the defense of the McNamaras were made points of inquiry in the government's cross-examination of Redden Seiffert, Charles B. Baum, Minneapolis, Daniel Buckley, Davenport, Iowa, and Murray L. Pennell, Springfield, Ill.

All replied they had urged contributions to the fund but they did not make an investigation, believing the McNamaras were innocent until they pleaded guilty.

This line of inquiry was permitted by the court on the ground that the Los Angeles Times explosion was part of the general conspiracy in which the defendants are alleged to be implicated.

ENGLISH PRESS LAUDS MISSION PROGRESSIVE PARTY IN AMERICA

Foresees Political Revolution That Is Bound to Come as Result of Election, He Says

The English press is full of admiration for the Progressive party in the United States. In the beginning of the year 1912, the English press had no doubt about the fact that the new party was the only one that stood for the people. They thought it was the only party that stood for the people. They thought it was the only party that stood for the people. They thought it was the only party that stood for the people.

It is according to the English press that the introduction of new elements and new conditions into American life has had the broad result which forecasting thinkers predicted in the three generations ago. The great republic is finding itself face to face with questions of the same order as those which have long confronted the nations of the old world. It is her task to find an answer for them which shall satisfy the reasonable demands of the masses without destroying the foundations of her political greatness.

It is the stability of her political institutions in the face of these questions for settled law and for those equal rights of all which settled law have been the basis of her greatness. MAN WALKED ABOUT WITH FRACTURED SKULL; DIDN'T KNOW THAT HE WAS HURT
 ST. LOUIS Wash. Dec. 6.—John M. Boland of New York, son of John Boland, a Chicago detective, and who was found yesterday in the lavatory of a cable car suffering from a fractured skull, recovered consciousness at the city hospital today and it is said there is no doubt he will recover. Boland had been about the city since Thanksgiving day and went to the cafe yesterday. In his pockets were a small sum of money and a pawn ticket for clothing. Apparently Boland walked about with his skull fractured without knowing the extent of his injury. The wound may have been inflicted an hour or so before he became unconscious, physicians say.

CHICAGO Dec. 6.—Francis H. Boland of Los Angeles, son of John Boland, head of a detective agency, is a guest at the Chicago Athletic association. He said today he had received two telegrams from Seattle stating that his brother, John Mort Boland, had been fatally injured. "I have wired to have everything possible done to save my brother's life," said Mr. Boland. "He has been associated with me in business until recently and I knew he was in Seattle. He called New York his home and was a member of the New York Athletic club. He is not a detective and has no connection with the agency of which my father is president, although he has done a little detective work at times."

ST. LOUIS Wash. Dec. 6.—Seven more indictments were returned by the Jefferson county grand jury today in the investigation of alleged election irregularities, making a total of 15 now returned. Indictments for about 40 men will be brought in before the grand jury finishes its work. It is said John D. Rehnapp, probate judge-elect, Samuel Stark, treasurer-elect, and Fred Stone, defeated for probate judge, were indicted for charges of election fraud.

HE WOULDN'T BUY CASH REGISTER FROM 'KNOCKER'

CINCINNATI Dec. 6.—(Columbian) Headlines were made today in the trial of President Patterson and a chief clerk of the National cash register company charged with having violated the criminal section of the Sherman anti-trust act. The business were on the stand today testifying for the government. Joseph P. Warren of Boston, in examining his cross-examination and direct examination, stated that when the prosecution gave up the Ohio cash registers were put on the market and a number of second hand stores started. Shortly afterward the National company started stores in the various cities in the state to sell second hand machines. John S. Inman of Woodside, Mont., told of buying an American cash register and of the efforts of the National people to make him change. He said he dismissed the National salesman, and that he would not buy a cash register from a knocker.

"Bowlegs Worse Than Knock-Knees?" To Be
Debated By Statesmen

DENVER, Dec. 6.—Zetta Zavitz was married to William S. Chapman at 4 o'clock today and when William Dishard, a cripple, heard of it he swore vengeance on both, according to the police. The bride had been a boarder at the home of Dishard's mother and he had been a suitor for the girl's hand.

Dishard obtained a knife and revolver. They were taken away from him by his mother before he could start out for the hotel where the new couple had gone. Then he went out, bought another revolver and went to the hotel. When Chapman stepped out in the hallway in response to Dishard's knock, it is alleged that Dishard pointed the revolver at him, but before he could fire Chapman knocked it out of his hand.

The groom then yielded his would-be assailant into the room where the WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Resolved, that bowlegs are a greater menace to navigation than knock-knees," will be debated by prominent statesmen of the nation next Thursday evening at the National Press club here.

On the affirmative, William Sulzer, congressman from New York, and governor-elect of the Empire state, and James M. Cox, congressman from Ohio and governor-elect of the Buckeye state, will argue. The negative will be presented by Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and Senator Gore of Oklahoma.

John Hays Hammond will be referee. The bride was and compelled Dishard to offer his congratulations to the happy couple. Dishard later was arrested and held on the charge of attempting to kill.

STRANDED STEAMER IN GRAVE DANGER

Heavy Craft on Great Lakes in Peril; Severe Gale
Still Raging.

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 6.—The passenger steamer Easton is reported tonight in a dangerous position on Ironquils reef, Thunder bay, with her passengers and crew still aboard.

A wireless message from Port Arthur says it was impossible to take the passengers off up to this evening owing to a heavy sea. A lighter and two tugs are standing by ready to attempt rescue if the conditions should become more threatening.

All the way between Sault Ste. Marie and the American head of the lakes are ships of various burden and various cargoes making their way through rough seas. Most of them are coal laden. Vessel men here today were apprehensive about these heavy craft.

In the fleet are some of the best known craft on the great lakes, including the Sellwood, Couby, Minneapolis, Imperial, Smith, Thompson, A. E. Ames, Wilbert Smith, Shenango, Wells, Augustus, Troquois, Keewatin and Canadian.

A wireless received at 9:30 by the Associated Press from the operator aboard the steamer Easton says:

"All aboard safe. The steam pipes are not damaged and everybody warm. We could walk ashore but there is nothing there but rocks and snow."

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Seven hundred Christmas trees, doubtless from the wreck of the Rouse Simmons, floated ashore at Kewanee, Two Rivers and Sturgeon Bay, Wis., today. They are being offered for sale by the finders.

The plan of sending out tugs to search for the Christmas tree schooner as contemplated last night was abandoned today, the consensus of opinion being that if members of the crew survived the wreck they have long since perished from exhaustion and exposure.

CROUPY COUGHS AND WHEEZY COLDS

The quickest, simplest way to rid the children of dangerous croupy coughs and wheezy stuffy colds is to give them Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It gives almost instant relief and stops a cough promptly. It soothes and breaks up the mucus. H. L. Blomquist, Eastville, Wis., says: "My wife considers Foley's Honey and Tar Compound the best cough cure and it gives the best results." The Robinson Drug Co. (Adv.)

INDICT FORMER LOS ANGELES POLICEMAN ON AN OLD CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—Indictments were returned by the county grand jury today against Harry Raymond and John Arlington in connection with the alleged false imprisonment of Fred W. Lloyd, a former policeman and important witness against City Inspector Gay Eddle, charged with having contributed to the delinquency of a young woman.

Raymond is the owner of a private detective agency and Arlington is an intimate friend of Cecil Nicholson, who was said to have given what was alleged to be bribe money to Lloyd at the behest of George Baker Anderson, then secretary to Mayor Alexander. Raymond was said to have planned the trapping of Lloyd.

Bench warrants were immediately used for the arrest of the two men and bail was fixed at $2,000 for each. Arlington was arrested and lodged in the county jail.

It was announced that the grand jury would resume its investigation of the Lloyd case next Monday. Thus far the authorities have been unable to ascertain the identity of the person who provided the funds for the alleged "frameup" against Lloyd.

Arlington was unable to obtain bonds and was locked up for the night. Raymond, whose arrest followed soon afterward, was released on bail.

Arlington gave out a statement in which he admitted having taken part in the alleged bribery of Lloyd, but said it had been represented to him by Raymond that it was part of a plan to "clean up" the police force.

The indictments charged the men with maliciously bringing about the false imprisonment of Lloyd.

NEPHEW PRESIDENT-ELECT OF CUBA GETS DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Dec. 6.—Paul L. Lombard y Gomez, nephew of the president-elect of Cuba, procured a divorce here today from Rhea Olivia Lombard, on the ground of desertion. They were married in New York city in 1911 and five days later Lombard alleged his wife left him because she found he was not wealthy, as she supposed.

She Stayed In Bed

Ingram, Texas.—"Ever since I became a woman," writes Mrs. E. M. Evans, of this place, "I suffered from womanly troubles. Last fall, I got so bad, I had to stay in bed for nearly a week every month. Since I have taken Cardui, I feel better than I have for years." You can rely on Cardui. It acts on the womanly organs and helps the system to regain its normal state of health, in a natural way. Prepared especially for women, it prevents womanly pains by acting on the cause, and builds up womanly strength in a natural way. Purely vegetable. Mild, but certain in action. Try it. Adv.

ALL YOU NEED IS A CASCARET TONIGHT.

No Sick Headache, Biliary Stomach, Coated Tongue or Constipated Bowels by Morning.

Turn the cascals out the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach. Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas, take the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good, never gripe or sicken. Adv.

GOVERNORS FAVOR PLAN

Bleuse, when he rose to defend himself, "the fourth letter threatening my life that I have received today. I was handed that just now by some one I did not know, and it was addressed to me in care of the governor of Virginia."

"I know nothing of the letter, sir," retorted Governor Mann of Virginia. "I never heard of it before. I did not receive it. I know nothing of its contents."

"My Own Opinion," continued Governor Bleuse. "I speak nobody's opinion but my own. The newspaper headlines have misrepresented me. When I spoke yesterday about the marriage of Jack Johnson in Chicago, I did not say he would be lynched in South Carolina. I did say that the laws of my state forbade the marriage, and I did say that I did not know if Virginia had been permitted in South Carolina, whether the law protecting him would have been possible of enforcement or not."

"Now, what I want to say to you is this: I don't care one whit whether you adopt this resolution or not. You may expel me for all I care. On the twenty-first day of next January I will begin my second term as governor. On the fourth of March, 1916, if God spares me, I will be sworn in as a member of the United States senate. I will put my fingers at your resolution, for all the resolutions and all the motions you may action will not avail to keep me out."

"Woman Pray for Me," continued Governor Bleuse. "Long after many of you gentlemen have today are resting in the shade of private life, I will be reaping the rewards of public service. Long after you good governors are no longer governors, the white women of South Carolina will pray for me with their arms around their girls and will arise from their knees to kiss their husbands and beg them to go to the ballot box and vote for Bleuse to protect them from their daily terror."

A film round of applause rippled over the conference hall succeeded by a storm of hisses.

A dozen governors, thinking the South Carolinian had concluded clamored for recognition, but he held the floor and smiled at the turmoil.

"What care I for your hisses," he shouted, shaking his clenched fist at the chairman and turning to face his colleagues.

"Hiss, Only Snakes Hiss," continued Governor Bleuse. "Hiss if you must, only snakes and geese hiss."

Again his voice was drowned in the storm.

When the vigorous rapping of the chairman had brought order, he continued:

"You are making yourselves ridiculous in the eyes of the nation. Why do you have to declare against moiety law? They ought to know you back in your homes. They ought to meet you each one at the railroad station with a brass band and say, 'Governor, we're glad you didn't endorse the utterances of that South Carolinian.'"

"When I said I would never order out the militia to protect the black brute who laid his degrading hands upon a white woman, I spoke the truth. I say it now again. That is my position, gentlemen, and if you

Four Governors Speak.

The four governors who voted against the resolution declared emphatically that they opposed mob violence. They voted in the negative, they said, because they thought they would exceed the rights of the conference and violate the courtesy due a colleague should they vote to reprimand him.

On the final ballot Governor Bleuse did not vote. After the result had been announced he arose and said:

"I did not vote, gentlemen, because it makes no difference to me one way or the other what this conference thinks or does."

Hadley Defines Cost Living.

All measures of correction designed to check the increasing cost of living will prove ineffectual, in the opinion of Governor Hadley of Missouri, who addressed the governors' conference today. "If the American people continue to produce less and eat more; continue to sell less of foodstuffs to the other nations of the world and to buy more food stuffs from the other nations of the world."

"The problem that confronts us, therefore," continued the governor, "is how to increase production; and that problem, in turn, involves the solution of the problem as to how to get people, and competent people, on the land. The proper cultivation of our farms necessitates smaller farms, or better-cultivated farms, and smaller farms or better-cultivated farms means, of course, more people working on the job."

Can Produce Farmers.

"It is the duty of the people to exert the powers of government to promote the happiness and the welfare of the people. And so, a recognized function of the state and national government should be to bring about a proper distribution of population between the cities and the country and also to direct the cultivation of our soil."

"While, in a general way, the best results can be secured by keeping or placing upon the farms those who have been trained to the cultivation of the soil, yet we can produce farmers, just as we can produce railroad men, machinists, lawyers or doctors. It is a state function to advertise and assist in the development of the resources within its limits. Another way in which the state can assist private enterprise in checking the drift of population from the country to the cities and in aiding those who should go from the town to the country, is by enactment of laws making farm credit associations, such as exist in foreign countries."

I. W. W. LEADERS FREED OF MURDER CHARGE
Left to right—Arturo Giovannitti and Joseph J. Ettor. The ardent leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World and Joseph Curran were acquitted of the charge of being guilty of the murder of Anna Lopiz, which took place during the Lawrence textile strike riots. Ettor and Giovannitti were most conspicuous in leading the striking workers and their exoneration after a trial lasting eight weeks has been a source of celebration for their followers.

Question

Nervous? Excitable? Irritable? Exhausted? Backache? Pain? Has living become a burden? Do you know what is wrong? If not, do you want to know what is wrong?

Answer

Such symptoms, as well as many others equally distressing, are commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of a distinctly feminine character.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is recommended as a powerful, invigorating tonic, imparting strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine. For over-worked housewives and business women it is a blessing. It induces calm, refreshing sleep, and banishes mental worry and despondency.

This tonic, in liquid form, was devised over 40 years ago for the womanly system, by R. V. Pierce, M. D., and has benefited many thousand women. Now it can also be obtained in tablet form from dealers in medicine, or sent 50 one-cent stamps for trial box.

Every woman ought to possess Dr. Pierce's great book, the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a magnificent thousand-page illustrated volume. It teaches mothers how to care for their children, and themselves. It is the best doctor to have in the house in case of emergency. Over half a million copies were sold at $1.50 each, but one free copy in cloth covers will be sent on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of wrapping and mailing only.

What gift could be a finer compliment to the intelligence of the recipient than a carefully selected Globe-Wernicke Bookcase? That it can be added to, a unit at a time, as the library grows, will be keenly appreciated by one of literary taste. In many homes it is a pleasant holiday custom to present a sufficient number of Globe-Wernicke Bookcase sections to accommodate the new additions to the library.

Globe-Wernicke Bookcases are made in several different styles, the finishes being carefully selected and applied to produce those harmonizing colors in which the natural grain of the wood shows to the best advantage.

THE DAY'S NEWS IN SPORT CIRCLES

COACH ROTHGEB LIKELY TO REMAIN WITH TIGERS

Coach Claude J. Rothgeb of Colorado college has been offered the position of coach at Ohio State university, according to an Associated Press dispatch received here yesterday, but it is not likely that he will accept. In a telegram to this city he stated that he has not considered any offer, and that he expects to remain with the Tigers if they want him.

Coach Rothgeb and Mrs. Rothgeb left here a week ago for a vacation trip to Champaign, Ill. It has been rumored that he is being considered by the University of Illinois authorities as a likely man for the athletic directorship there.

SELECT PLACES FOR BIG TRAP SHOOT

President, James T. Shelly, Wilmington, Del.; vice president, T. G. Drew, New Haven, Conn.; treasurer, manager, Elmer E. Shuman, Pittsburgh. It was decided to hold the grand American handicap shoot for 1913 at Dayton, Ohio; the Western handicap at Omaha; the Eastern handicap at Wilmington, Del.; the Southern at Montgomery, Ala.; and the Southwest at San Antonio, Tex.

The place for the Pacific coast handicap will be selected later.

WELLS KNOCKS OUT SOUTH AFRICAN CHAMP

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Roughly speaking, the English heavyweight champion made his first appearance in the ring in London since his return from the United States when tonight he knocked out General Rodel, champion of South Africa.

Col. Castrow Is Head of Commission for World Rifle Shoot

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Col. H. G. Castrow of Dayton, Ohio, of the Third Infantry, National guard, was today chosen commissioner general for the international rifle matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, next September in connection with the centennial celebration of the Perry victory on Lake Erie. The executive committee of the National Rifle Association of America today approved the program for the officials of the international match which next year will be held for the first time in the United States.

Camp Perry will witness next year the second Panamerican shoot, held for the first time last May in Buenos Ayres, Argentina. Additional matches open to the world include the famous Palma trophy competition and a new Panamerican match for a two-man team for a trophy offered by John W. Garrett, United States minister to Argentina.

One of the most interesting contests will be for the long range military championship of the world, ranging for 45 shots at 500, 600 and 700 yards. The trophy for this contest was established only a few days ago at the convention of the National Guard Association of America at Norfolk, Va. The prizes for the international matches alone will amount to about $20,000.

Prizes, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Sweden, Belgium, Canada, Peru and Argentina already have sent assurances that they will send delegates to the United States for the competitions and it is expected that in all about 25 nations will be represented. Formal invitations will be sent to all nations by the state department.

At the end of the fight came in the second round after Wells twice had felled Rodel.

RIDERS WARM UP FOR SIX-DAY BICYCLE RACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Most of the riders who are to take part in the six-day bicycle race beginning Sunday night were contestants in a series of sprint races over the newly laid summer track in Madison Square Garden tonight. There were several spills, but none of the riders were seriously hurt.

Gordon Walker of Australia won the five-mile open professional race, with "Blackie" Clarke of Australia, second, and Lloyd Thomas of Salt Lake City, third. Walter Smith of Germany finished fourth and Eddie Reed of Boston fifth. The time was 10:25.4.

Hours in the half-mile professional handicap were taken by W. L. Mitten of Dayton, Iowa, who won the final heat from Alvin Loftus of Providence, with a handicap of 55 yards. Elmer L. Collins of Lynn, Mass., won the five-mile professional motor paced race, defeating James E. Moran of Chelsea, Mass., by three-fifths of a mile in 10:22.15.

MANY A VICTORY IS DUE TO WORK OF SCRIMMAGE LINE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—There have been many stirring paragraphs written of quick-witted quarterbacks, fleet-footed and agile halfbacks, and terrific line-plunging fullbacks, but with all the praise and commendation for the four men behind the line, little consideration or applause is given the players on the line of scrimmage. Primarily, the men from end to end are directly responsible for the line of scrimmage, and without their help, the line of scrimmage would be impossible to maintain. Without competent forwards a sound resistance from attack or a ground-kicking offense would be impossible for the line. The line did not successfully execute their requirements with mathematical precision, systematic drill would be impossible.

It is inconceivable yet nevertheless true that many unexpected plays are laid upon the backs of the backfield. Undoubtedly the forwards are responsible for the resultant scores, but their colleagues in the backfield. When a team demonstrates its superiority over another the line men who were members of the victorious team rarely share in the glories of battle. On the other hand, should the same team be defeated, the line men are the first to be blamed. The line men are the backbone of the team, and without their help the team would be unable to execute its plays. In many cases the center is the fastest, the best, and with the exception of the quarterback, is the best-informed man of the eleven regarding the large assortment of plays for his specific duties are manifold in comparison to other members of the team. With the exception of the old style of play, which was a direct pass, which warrants the necessity of a team's having centers. In the old game he was merely a superfluous heavy individual who simply handed the ball to the waiting hands of the quarterback and then lunged head first and blindly at an opponent. At that time he was not required to retain as many of the intricate portions of the game as the modern center. Now he must know, with mathematical precision, each and every play, must pass with unerring accuracy, charge with tenacity, play well either on primary or secondary defense, tackle with no degree of uncertainty, and, in general, must fulfill two-fold the duties of the center of the past.

poorly played game, taste plentifully of the bitter cup.

Among the prescribed for unnoted duties of the line men are blocking, charging and very often leaving a position to form interference for a back in carrying the ball. Occasionally the tackle and ends are called upon to rush the passer, which adds materially to their duties.

Charging is, perhaps, the most unpleasant of all these requirements. In this to any decided advantage. Nevertheless, the line men rushing head downward continuously, using their weary shoulders as catapults, in a titanic endeavor to overpower an opponent, not by speed, numbness or strategy, but solely by manly physical strength. A team that does not maintain an effective charge is usually upon the short end of the score sheet, and the line men, realizing this, are called upon to strain every tendon of superhuman effort to wear away the resisting phalanx of the opposition.

The backfield men naturally carry the ball a good deal of the time, and the line men, realizing this, are called upon to strain every tendon of superhuman effort to wear away the resisting phalanx of the opposition. CLARK AND BRESNAHAN HOLD A CONFERENCE

ST. LOUIS, O., Dec. 6.—Fred Clarke, manager of the Pittsburgh baseball club, and Roger Bresnahan had a long conference here tonight, but Bresnahan did not sign a Pittsburgh contract, nor will Clarke say that he has Bresnahan's promise to play for him.

On the contrary Clarke states that the situation is just as it was before, that Bresnahan would not be in a position to negotiate with any club until the matter of the broken contract with St. Louis is settled; that there were three clubs after Bresnahan's services and nothing would be officially done until he and the St. Louis club owners settle their differences.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6.—The Peerson Candy Kid team, South Omaha, Neb., rolled into third place in the five-man event at the Middle West Bowling tournament tonight by making a score of 2,735.

The Jetter Gold Tops of South Omaha, J. E. Briggs, captain, scored 2,593, and the Commerce club team of Pueblo, Colo., Fred Dixon, captain, scored 2,432.

DELAY SETTLEMENT OF YALE COACH QUESTION

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 6.—Within the last few days it has been decided to put off the decision on the settlement of the Yale football coaching question until the Christmas holidays, and to thoroughly discuss and come to some definite conclusion concerning the question at a conference to be held at the Yale club in New York some time during the recess. This will be after the election of the new captain, and he will be present at the conference if he wishes. The idea is in a way similar to the one held at the Yale club regarding the coaching situation a few years ago, which resulted in the engaging of James O. Rodgers as permanent coach of the Yale crew.

Ketchum, the new captain, will formally call the old players together. Among those most likely to be present are Walter Camp, father of football at Yale; Tax Commissioner William H. Corbin of Hartford, and "Pa" Corbin of the late eighties; T. Lee McClung, who recently resigned as treasurer of the United States; Frank S. Butterworth, George Adee, the old quarterback; George Chadwick, Brinkley Thorne, Vance McCormick, formerly mayor of Harrisburg; Howard Jones, John W. Field, Edward H. Coy, if he is still in the north; Head Coach Fred Daly of Williams; "Al" Sharpe, head coach of Cornell; Arthur Howe, John E. Owsley, John R. Kilpatrick, Burr Chamberlain, James O. Rodgers and Foster Sanford of New York. It is not expected that Frank Hinkey will come east from Kansas for the occasion, but it is hoped that Tom Shevlin will come from Minnesota and bring with him Harry Williams, the University of Minnesota player who has often sent good-natured cables in recent years. Those who are arranging the meeting will also invite Hoffendine, who came east for a week this fall to help coach the Yale team. All the present Yale coaches will be there.

Princeton to Have Veterans in 1913

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 6.—Princeton will enter the 1913 football season with a veteran for every position on the team except center and right tackle, a situation unique in the history of the university. Nine of the 18 football veterans now in college will return for next season, and there is a possibility that this number will be increased to 11 if John Logan and DeWitt, the punter, return to college. Pendleton, Peirfield, Blumenthal, Alexander, Dunlap and Wright are the only football stars who will graduate next spring.

HOPPE AVERAGES 100 AND WINS MATCH WITH SLOSSON

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—Landing the world's record average of 100 at 182 back-line billiards, Willie Hoppe won his match with George Slosson here tonight by scoring 40 points in four innings.

In the third inning he had a run of 29, the highest that ever has been witnessed in this city at this style of play. Slosson's total was 37.

Summary: Hoppe, 2, 12, 28, 2, 100; Slosson, 1, 12, 10, 12, 37. Average: Hoppe, 100; Slosson, 74. Total, 177. Average, 102.3.

HARVARD PLAYERS GIVEN GOLDEN FOOTBALL TROPHY

POSBURY, Dec. 6.—Six hundred Harvard men greeted their "champion" football team of 1912 with cheers at the banquet given the players here tonight by the Harvard club of Boston. Coach Percy Haughton was given a silver loving cup and a golden football trophy was presented to each player.

Dean Lee Barron R. Briggs, chairman of the athletic committee, who was master of ceremonies, was applauded when referring to charges of roughness in the Harvard-Cornell game. "He said: 'I don't believe any Harvard player in that game felt that any opponent player had any enemy against him.'"

Umpire Joe O'Brien, who had a trial in the American league last fall and has been holding the indicator in the series the Athletics have been playing in Cuba, goes to the American association next year. President Dan Johnson having turned him over to President "Chickering" in exchange for Charley Ferguson.

Marty O'Toole is quoted as saying that the real puzzle in the National league race next year is picking the team that will finish second. "We all know," says Marty, "that Pittsburgh is going to win the pennant, but it is going to be more difficult to do so than just which club is destined to cop the runner-up honors."

M'CARTY SHOWS UP IN SPLENDID FORM

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—Luther McCarty, Billy McCarney's white hope, was a matchless to box Jim Flynn on the cent of this month, booked out to a full house Saturday afternoon at Peter's gymnasium, Venice, Cal.

McCarty is improving each day in his training and boxing and he makes friends and foes alike. He is making a record of a decided improvement in his speed and last week and his two sparring partners, that are giving him fast, the kind of work he needs in his training to meet a man like Jim Flynn.

He started with several rounds at the punch line and busted the rope three times before he finished his work with the speedy kid.

He then jumped into the ring for some shadow boxing and he is good at that kind of work for a big man.

The Human Blow

While he was at the imaginary work in walked Paul Young, one of his sparring partners. As soon as he entered the gymnasium, Tim McCarthy, who was sitting with Charlie Van Loan and Nat Goodman, said: "There he is, the guy that has been working hard without too long."

Van Loan got up and asked: "Where's McCarty?"

"Who said Tim?" a former came along one day and saw him pulling a chair over himself and asked him where his boss was living. Bill lifted up the pillow and pointed to the nearest farm house and said: "Over there."

"Bill is so strong," said Tim, "that he can take his shirt off without unbuttoning it."

Tim kept some more. He is as big as a house, stands 6 feet and weighs 275 pounds, striped, and is a very fast runner for his weight, and gives McCarthy just the kind of a workout he needs. He is well named, as he is hitting into Luther all the time, and is a hard hitter. Young also holds the record for being the champion sheet steeper in Montana.

McCarty then went three rounds with Walter, which was more of the close work. Luther showed a hard punch with each hand and any time he lands on Flynn, Jim will know that he is in a fight. He practices a left hand hook, straight punch and an uppercut.

While he shows plenty of championship material in him, there is a lot to be developed before he can claim himself a finished boxer.

McCarty will prove a most dangerous fellow in the heavyweight class at the present time.

Billy McCarney is a most confident fellow over Luther's chances, and many down at Venice think well of his chances to win.

I am the immigrant.
Since the dawn of creation my restless feet have beaten new paths across the earth.
My uneasy bark has tossed on all seas.
My wanderlust was born of the craving for more liberty and a better wage for the sweat of my face.
I looked towards the United States with eyes kindled by the fire of ambition and heart quickened with new-born hope.
I approached its gates with great expectation.
I entered in with fine hope.
I have shouldered my burden as the American man-of-all-work.
I contribute eighty-five per cent of all the labor in the slaughtering and meat-packing industries.
I do seven-tenths of the bituminous coal mining.
I do seventy-eight per cent of all the work in the woolen mills.
I contribute nine-tenths of all the labor in the cotton mills.
I make nineteen-twentieths of all the clothing.
I manufacture more than half the shoes.
I build four-fifths of all the furniture.
I make half of the collars, cuffs and shirts.
I turn out four-fifths of all the leather.
I make half the gloves.
I refine nearly nineteen-twentieths of the sugar.
I make half of the tobacco and cigars.
And yet, I am the great American problem.
When I pour out my blood on your altar of labor, and lay down my life as a sacrifice to your god of toil, men make no more comment than at the fall of a sparrow.
But my brawn is woven into the warp and woof of the fabric of your national being.
My children shall be your children and your land shall be my land because my sweat and my blood will cement the foundations of the America of Tomorrow.
If I can be fused into the body politic the melting pot will have stood the supreme test.
I will let another tell the whole story of my coming and the problem of my being here.
It will be told by Frederic J. Haskin.

A BASIS FOR RATE MAKING

THE house of representatives has passed, without a dissenting vote, a bill providing for a commission to make a physical valuation of all railroads and also to investigate issues of stocks and bonds. This is a law for which the interstate commerce commission has asked many years. It has always been opposed as being "too radical." But, so great has been the change in public sentiment in recent years, that it now meets with practically no opposition.

The physical valuation of railroads has long been needed. It is absolutely necessary for the regulation of railroad rates. The interstate commerce commission, in its rate making, has been without a definite basis for the making of rates. It has never known what rate the railroads were entitled to receive.

Of course the roads have contended that they should receive a fair return on their capital. But what is their capital? Not the sum total of the stocks they have issued despite their contention to this effect for it is a notorious fact that much of the stock of some roads is simply water. But neither the commerce commission, nor anyone else, has never been able to discover what part of a road's capitalization represented actual investment, what part merely water.

This will be corrected, if the Adamson bill goes through the senate, as undoubtedly it will. As soon as the commission shall have ascertained the actual values of the railroads it can fix rates that will be just, both to the public and to the roads. But, until these facts are ascertained, the commission should not consider the pending request from eastern roads, asking permission to increase freight rates in order to meet the increase in wages recently granted employees.

COLORADO SPRINGS NEEDS IT

IT IS highly important that Colorado Springs should have a place on the transcontinental automobile highway now being planned. At present Denver seems convinced that the new road will go from there due west over Berthoud pass. This would leave Colorado Springs 75 miles off the road.

Every effort should be made to secure the road for this city. This ought not to be a matter of extreme difficulty if the project is taken up vigorously. Automobiles themselves would prefer to have the highway pass through this city for who would care to come to Colorado without visiting the attractions of the Pikes Peak region?

But there must be vigorous action, else Denver, by default, will capture the highway.

THE FIRST DUTY

WORLD-WIDE horror has been aroused by the loss of life in the war in the Balkans, and by the epidemic of cholera by which it has been followed. But, right here in our own country, there is an enemy that each year carries away more lives than have been lost in any of the Balkan battles. Annually 25,000 lives are sacrificed to typhoid in the United States, and every one of these deaths is preventable.

Nor does the loss of life represent the entire cost of typhoid in the United States. Where one person dies with the disease, 10 recover, but only after a long sickness. The economic loss involved in these protracted illnesses is estimated to be $100,000,000 yearly.

In contemplation of such figures can anyone doubt that the biggest problem confronting the people of the United States is the conservation of its resources of human lives?

WHAT OF THE MIDLAND?

THE supreme court's decision in the Union Pacific case, that one railroad cannot secure control of a competitor, is likely to result in changes in the local railroad situation. If the case of the reported absorption of the Colorado Midland by the Denver and Rio Grande is carried to the court, it is hard to see how the case could result otherwise than in the dissolution of the merger.

The Colorado Midland has never occupied a position of great strength in the railroad world. Yet its potential strength, if it were backed by strong financial interests, is great. It was for this reason that the Rio Grande secured control of it. If the Rio Grande were forced to relinquish the road, it might pass into the control of the Rock Island, the Burlington, or some other road seeking a western outlet. And in that case the Midland might be made a formidable competitor of the Gould line.

The Union Pacific decision is bound to make big changes in the railroad map of the country. It will be interesting to see what becomes of the Midland.

LOOKING UP

THAT a representative of the railroads should have asked for a conference with the Colorado Springs union depot commission concerning the plan for a new union passenger station is the most favorable sign since the fight for a union station was begun. Certainly the railroads, for their own good, should take the lead in this movement. One station can be operated more cheaply than two, and a union station will be of vast convenience to the patrons of the various roads.

Furthermore, if the railroads do not take the initiative, the time is almost at hand when they will be compelled to act. For there is no question but that the public utilities commission law, which the coming legislature will certainly pass, will contain such a provision as is a part of every other real utilities law, giving to the commission the power to order the construction of a union station when necessity is found to demand it.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

DENVER business men have just formed an organization, the purpose of which is to secure for that city attractions of sufficient merit to persuade pilgrims to the San Francisco Panama exposition in 1915 to stop off in that city on their way across the continent. In this Colorado Springs should imitate Denver. There will be hundreds of thousands of people passing through Colorado for the big exposition, and they should all be prevailed upon to spend at least a few days in visiting Colorado Springs. It is none too early to begin to prepare for the invasion.

KEEP HIM AT HOME

DOUBTLESS this person Blease represents the public opinion of South Carolina, since he has been chosen governor of that state for a second term. But the Palmetto state should have sufficient consideration for the rest of the country not to let him roam beyond the borders of his home state. For he is exceedingly nauseating to people with any regard for decency and for law and order.

DR. ELIOT WILL BE BUSY

CHARLES D. ELIOT, president of the National Civil Service Reform league, says "this league will watch with vigilance and the keenest interest the action concerning civil service reform about to be taken by the Democratic party." And, judging by the mutterings of the patriotic Democratic hosts, Dr. Eliot and his associates will have plenty of watching to do, if any remnants of civil service are to be preserved.

WILL FIND THE WAY BLOCKED

To the Editor of The Gazette:
To a man, enduring the hardships which working people have to endure, it is encouraging to read such editorial comment on economic subjects as the ideal few copies of The Gazette have contained. It is encouraging to note the changed attitude of many of the churches in regard to labor and labor problems.

It is also going to be mighty interesting to watch press and public as they bump up against some of the knotty problems which they are sure to encounter in their effort to clean up this iniquitous system under which we live. Before they have proceeded far along the road they will find the way squarely blocked by the hard-headed, hard-boiled, hard-hearted "captains of industry" with whom labor unions have been compelled to contend for years, to get even a small measure of justice for the working class.

Abolition of child labor, eight hour laws for women, workmen's compensation laws and old age pensions, all good things in themselves, under this type and shelter, having the working class practically unhelped.

Unlike two recent contributors to "Open Parliament," this writer attends church services. He listens to the discourses of a big-hearted, kindly-dispositioned preacher, to whom he is perfectly willing to accord the merit of being sincere, although he believes him to be mistaken in many things. Amongst others, in the belief that the profit system can ever be made to square with the teaching of the carpenter of Nazareth, who made an appeal for assistance to the millionaires, the "society ladies," and all those who enjoyed unearned increment in his days.

When the church and such part of the press as chooses to fight for a cleaner and better world have traveled the thorny path of reform for a few years and have thereby demonstrated to their own satisfaction that the system of competition and profits is utterly unfit for use by an intelligent and truly Christ-like living world, I hope they will begin to notice how the Golden Rule coincides with the plan of giving to each all that they produce, and allowing none to appropriate that which they do not produce.

Until such a system is in operation the church can never be what it ought to be. When such a time comes a pair of "Angels" may be painted. Not an ignorant pair of peasants standing with heads bowed in the faint presence of a God they do not understand, but a pair of intelligent humans, well clothed, well housed, standing squarely upright with eyes clear from the consciousness that they have robbed no one and that they themselves have not been robbed.

REAR END COLLISIONS

The horrible accident which occurred near Zanesville, Ohio, to a Pennsylvania railroad train, in which 11 innocent travelers lost their lives, and others were severely injured, all of the victims being in the rear of the train—occurring, as it did, on one of the best managed railroads in the country—demonstrates anew the hopelessness of preventing this kind of peril to which every traveler subjects himself who travels in the rear of a train, especially at night.

With all the safety precautions, the element of human carelessness sooner or later enters and takes its toll of life and limb, and the railroads are as far, apparently, from protecting their passengers from this least excusable of all types of disaster as they were 20 years ago.

It is futile to inveigh against the carelessness which accounts for it; something more radical and effective is necessary. The one alternative left would appear to be to compel every passenger train by law to carry at its rear end a buffer-car without passengers—possibly the express car on the train—which will receive the shock of the collision—the split into kindling wood if necessary—and thus protect and save the passengers in the cars ahead.

This would probably be objected to by the railroads as inconvenient for them, and it would largely do away with the present "observation car" as now devised; but human lives are certainly worth more than these objections, and since the railroads prove their incompetency to protect their passengers adequately against this form of constant menace, it seems quite time that legislators should demand that railroads adopt the only alternative left, notwithstanding any inconvenience to the railroads in making up their trains.

If your newspaper, and all the others in the country, will combine in demanding this innovation, legislators will take it up and these frequent holocausts will largely become things of the past. Our national pride alone ought to make us ashamed of the public's supineness in tolerating a far greater percentage of accidents than any other civilized country in the world.

Man and Superman

By RUTH CAMERON.

Every once in a while the telephone at our house has a spasm of ringing two. A dozen times in succession the short, staccato two will ring out, reflecting the impotence of the operator and of the party at the other end of the line.

"Two" lives across the street, and very often during one of these spasms I look out and see a light, if it is evening, or some other sign of life if it is in the daytime, and then I know what the unidentified telephone probably signifies, and I am both sorry and ashamed for one of my "sisters under the skin." For this "two" is a refusal to answer the telephone means: "Two" is an eligible young bachelor. He makes friends among the fair sex very easily and tires of them with equal facility. Unfortunately some of them do not always tire so quickly. The party at the other end of the persistent telephone is one of these. She is always making some pretext to call him up on the telephone, and the result is that when he feels reasonably sure she is an idiot wife he sits down smoking and reading while the phone calls and calls, until everyone else on the line is close to nervous prostration.

Poor little girl! I can't help being sorry for her when I think how desperate and unhappy she must feel to be so shamelessly persistent. And, yet again, I can't help being ashamed, as any of us instinctively are, for those of our sisters who go against the dearest tradition of the sex—that woman must seem, at least, to be the pursued and not the pursuer.

Yon police I say seem. Most women do actually pursue their mates to a certain extent. One of the most modest women I know said: "That is the man for me" the first time she saw the man who is now her husband, and proceeded to stalk him in a strictly feminine way. Yet he thinks he showed wonderful taste in selecting her from a crowd of attractive girls, and remarkable energy in winning her. For in spite of the fact that she hunted him in a feminine way, never once did she make any open move that looked like pursuit.

I have heard it said that a man sometimes marries a girl because he feels flattered at her open showing of desire. I don't imagine that happens very often, and I am pretty sure that when it does, there wasn't any other attractive girl about who was appealing to the normal instinct of pursuit in that man.

Perhaps it would be a much better world if men and women each openly sought their mates. But we are living in the world as it is, and in that world there is nothing surer than that the real man wants to hunt out his own mate, and that the moment he suspects he is being hunted he dislikes the huntress.

They also serve who only stand and wait" is a sentiment which it is well to remember in a great many relations of life, but in none is it half so important as in this.

Mary Queen of Scots

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Tomorrow is the birthday of Mary Queen of Scots, who has stood out in history for over three hundred years as a solemn warning to ambitious young ladies who desire to go into the queen business without good backing.

Mary was born December 8, 1542, in Scotland of a good family, her father being king of the country at the time. Six days after her birth he died and it became necessary for the young Mary to do the reigning for the country.

This was a heavy job for a six-day-old infant, but she might have managed it all right if Henry VIII of England had not demanded that she marry.

"It became necessary for the young Mary to do the reigning."

his son six years later. Mary refused on the ground that she was too young to stay up for a wedding supper and a war ensued, during which she escaped to France.

Here Mary began her matrimonial career by marrying the Dauphin, who was runner-up for the king of France in those days. He died when she was 18 and she returned to Scotland to take up the queen business for a living. "The young widow was handsome and very popular. This proved her undoing for she soon began to marry with great recklessness and persistence. First she married Lord Darnley, who did not give good satisfaction, and then she married the Earl of Bothwell, who was generally supposed to have eradicated Darnley. This caused the Scots to rise in Presbyterian fury and Mary not only lost her job, but was sent to prison.

Let us on Mary escaped, which was the most unfortunate thing she accomplished in her long career. She fled to England where she had a cousin, Elizabeth, who was also in the queen business. Mary confidently expected that Elizabeth would recognize members of the profession, but on the contrary, Elizabeth, believing that Mary wished to undermine her for the job, had her arrested and tried for treason. The trial made the late queen fastidious-seem brief and hasty. But in the end Mary was convicted, and in 1587 she was officially retired from politics by a stout man with a six according to the barbarous custom of those days.

If Mary had been born poor she would have lived happily to a great age on one meal a day. But she was born a princess and life was rough on princesses 350 years ago. It was more dangerous to be a princess then than it is to be an aviator now. Moreover, they did not have a fair show. Mary only had three, or at most, three and one-half husbands, but they made her more unpopular than a present-day actress could become by accumulating 20.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Care of your health will repay you. Be careful to have a constant supply of pure air. Troubles threaten you and a quiet even course is best. Those born today will be naturally rather unpleasant, and should be taught to think how they would like the same treatment that they give to others. With their natural cleverness and an acquired good judgment, their future will be well assured.

THE WIRELESS DREAM

From the Chicago Journal.
Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the most famous system of wireless telegraphy, believes that in the near future power will be transmitted by wireless from place to place.

He believes the present system of transmission lines crude and wasteful. He holds that wireless transmission power will be developed to the point where power will be generated at the waterfall or the coal mine and flashed almost any distance through the air to the place where the raw materials are awaiting manufacture; at a trifling fraction of the present cost.

This is a dream, but it is not all a dream, and for the past century the dreams of inventors have come true.

Power is transmitted by wireless now every time a wireless telegram is sent or received. The commercial is to make that transmission problem profitable and to send it only in a given direction. At present the aerial current is flashed out in every direction, just like the light from an uncovered candle.

Whether the dream is realized in the lifetime of any one now alive, it is good to know the goal toward which men like Marconi are striving.

ROMAN METHOD OF HEATING

From the Detroit Free Press.
Like many other Roman houses that have been unearthed in England, one recently brought to light was heated by a system called "hypocaust." The entire basement was one big furnace, from which lines ascended, built into the walls. A wood fire was kept at the basement, the fuel being fed in from outside annex, through an arch in the wall.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE NEED-WEORK GUILD

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

There is a national organization in this country which distributed nearly a million new garments to needy human beings last year and yet so quietly and unostentatiously was this great work accomplished that there are thousands of people who have never even heard of the "Need-Work Guild of America." It was organized in Philadelphia in 1885, and incorporated in June of 1886. It owes its origin to an English noblewoman who was foster-mother to hundreds of orphans in an institution which she had founded and who conceived this unique and practical way of providing for her wards.

Every charitably disposed person within her reach was asked to contribute two garments a year, to help clothe these needy little ones. In 1885 an American lady traveling in England came in touch with this practical charity and brought the idea home to this country. Her niece became the founder of the American organization through interesting a few of her friends in the work. From this small beginning has sprung the national body which governs branches throughout the whole United States and is constantly extending its work.

The garments guild now has about 350 branches in 36 states. Each branch controls its own work, but the national body is affiliated officially with the American Red Cross society and that organization has agreed to act as a distributing agent for all the contributions donated by all of the branches of the guild for the special relief work of any great national disaster. The guild is also affiliated with the General Federation of Women's clubs and is entitled to representation in its meetings.

Object of Guild.

The object of the guild is to collect and distribute new garments to hospitals, homes and other charitable institutions, and to extend its usefulness by the organization of other branches. The garments are collected from the members of the guild, the contribution of two new garments each year or a donation of money—no amount specified—constituting the qualification for membership. While it is considered a woman's organization, the many men who belong usually contribute money instead of garments. There is no special requirement regarding the quality of the garments furnished other than that they be new. Preferably they should be plain and there is a great demand for warm garments than for thin ones. Articles of fancy lingerie are of comparatively little use. "Stress" is laid always upon the word "new," as there are always many agencies to handle the partly worn garments. The guild by its charter cannot accept them.

The effect of new substantial clothing upon a person made suddenly destitute by sickness or other cause is that of moral uplift rather than pauperization. There are thousands of people who pass each year through the medical and charitable institutions of this country most of whom are insufficiently clad and these institutions rarely have the means at hand to supply that lack. For instance, when children are brought to the Children's Aid society, it is seldom that they have sufficient clothing. More frequently they are brought to the aid of the orphanage that it has to be provided. Hundreds of consumptives, under outdoor treatment, are unable to provide themselves with the warm clothing essential to their recovery. The majority of day nurseries require additional clothing for the little ones in their care, while the rescue work for men and women the Seamen's Aid, the Society for Discharged Prisoners and numerous other organizations are in constant need of garments which their own resources do not supply.

Supplying Hospital's Garments.

Perhaps the greatest work done by the guild is in the supplying of garments to the hospitals. A member once went to a large and well-cared-for hospital and asked to see a patient admitted recently. They found the sound of the ambulance bell announced the coming of a man who had been injured in the machinery of a large factory. Before he was taken into the ward, he had been prepared for bed and on the stretcher bearing his covered form was his boy hearing his name and the number of his bed. It was the only article of his clothing which was fit to keep. The man would have had nothing to wear when he was discharged and the hospital had no available means of supplying him.

While munificent donations frequently are made to hospital equipment, it is seldom that any funds are applicable to the needs of outgoing patients and yet there is no time in a human being's life when he is so much in need of comfortable clothing as after a time in a hospital. Often the urgent needs of these cases are met by persons connected with the hospital.

THE ROSE MAID

AT THE GRAND
In the hotel scene at Ostend, portrayed in the second act of Wecha and Luescher's great musical success, "The Rose Maid," realism is said to run riot. Life in a modern fashionable hotel has been portrayed with much faithful detail. The setting shows the lower floors of a luxury hotel at the height of its busy season. On the lawn before the hostelry are numerous tables about which are seated elegantly gownned ladies and aristocratic gentlemen. All during the opening of the act these are being served by attentive waiters, flower girls and "bun" boys. Royal food and drink is set on the tables, while the gay music graphically suggests a merry party at dinner.

His scene supplants the old-time setting chimes number, and is only one of many episodes in "The Rose Maid" that has helped to make this star opera, "The Spring Maid" a distinct novelty.

ADOLPH KLUBER, in "Uncle Josh Perkins," Opera House, Today, Matinee and Night.
Like "Uncle John Perkins" the best comedy-drama in years. This excellent play, with the most capable company ever assembled for production, will be at the Grand Opera house today, matinee and night. There is a meaning in the title of "Uncle Josh Perkins" which one might naturally expect to find in an unusually successful rural comedy-drama. At no time during the four acts of the play does "Uncle Josh" fall into the hands of a comedian, but he dominates every scene—serious or merry—wherein the wholesome characteristics of this quiet New England family perpetuate a moral and wholesome philosophy which are worldwide their scope. This is the play which has outlived any other dramatic offering New England rural life. Probably because its story is so human and true, the instincts of men, women and children, and more likely because the playwright has constructed a story of

It is expected that there will be quite an attendance of the younger patrons of the theater at our Saturday matinee of "The Little Gray Lady," seeing that the engagement of Little Miss Editha James closes on Saturday night. Those who have seen her excellent character presentation of the backward young girl would little think that this young girl has received a very careful educational training at the hands of private tutors. She has made an extended tour of the world, remaining in Paris for one year with French governesses and receiving her initial training for her career. She is an orphan child and in the care of her grandmother, Mrs. Ladd. After a short stay in Denver, she expects to return to Paris to complete her education.

Matinee today. Doors open 1:45; curtain, 2:30 sharp.
The many admirers of Malcolm Duncan will be glad to hear that he is making good in Margaret Livingston's company playing "Kindling," which is now in Montreal. After playing one or two of the larger towns they move to Boston, where they will open the New Cory theater, where it is expected the play will remain for a period of at least 10 weeks. Negotiations are now under way for the whole company to then go to England.

Today at 2:30 in the sharp, "The Little Gray Lady," welcomes you at The Burns.
The press comments regarding Mr. Duncan's part are very complimentary. The Washington, D. C. paper states that Malcolm Duncan contributes a very vivid piece of character acting in the part of the east side parasite, Steve Bates. They say it is the most authentic picture of the typical Bowery tough that has been seen across the footlights in many years.

The Toronto paper, speaking of the same part states as follows: "Malcolm Duncan pictures a consummate representative of the east side scum. This actor's work in every pose, every gesture and movement is true to type. Faithful in the extreme, and the whole is a genuine piece of art."
We all hope, with pleasure, remember the splendid work he did during his engagement at The Burns this summer.

FIRST SON NOT ALWAYS BEST

From The Gallipolis Tribune.
The first born son is not necessarily the smartest, according to history. Among famous men of genius who came along late in their families are Joseph, David, Napoleon, Dickens, Lincoln, Washington, Cromwell, Tolstol, Daniel Webster, Franklin, Balzac, Tennyson, Chopin, Van Dyck and Rembrandt. The oldest son in the family is not necessarily the best. Being the oldest, of course, he will put on most airs and be a family leader because of mere firstness, but the youngest boy may be the one whose name will be come distinguished, or the one who will be the greatest comfort to his parents.
A course in penal studies was recently instituted by the University of Montpellier, France. Physicians, publicists, lawyers, police and court officials were among those who enrolled for the course. American educators hope that the interest in criminology will lead to something similar in this country.

THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD
By Frederic J. Haskin.

needed with the hospital who from their own pockets supply clothing they can ill afford to give. The work of the guild supplies just this lack.
It does not make any difference how the garments are secured by the members, so long as they are new and suitable. Many of the sewing clubs of similar character contribute the members to make the articles. Some of the members of the guild contribute them. A perfect assortment of garments is secured by the guild. The garments needed in the hospital are of the kind that young girls would like to have. Many have a piece of quilt work on hand and at hand. Queen Mary of England, who was one of the strong influences of the organization, used to make garments for the poor. When asked how she managed to accomplish so much, she said: "I always have one of my sitting rooms and I take it in whenever I have a few minutes to spare."

Has Few Formalities

The guild has few formalities than most organizations. The officers consist of a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer for each town. Anybody can be a director by becoming responsible for 25 new garments and one cash contribution. This is in addition to her own two garments she must secure. 10 other members who will give garments and one who will contribute money. There is an annual collection of garments, each director securing those from her own members and in the fall or early winter there is the annual meeting at which the officers for the year are elected by the votes of the directors and the garments collected are distributed to the various organizations or institutions to which they have been assigned.

The expenses of the guild are not heavy and consist chiefly in stationery and postage for the secretary's correspondence, the cost of a room if one cannot be obtained free, expressage, wrapping paper, etc., for sending out packages and the printing of the legal report if deemed necessary. There are no salaries of officers and the average of one money contribution to ten is usually about sufficient to cover these needs. Each branch is supposed to reserve from the money collected from its members sufficient to defray its own expenses. It sends the remainder to the national treasury to be used for guild extension and the support of the national work.

Many Are Generous

It frequently happens that those who have been to give themselves are most generous in their efforts. One poor old lady in a western town sent 12 little patchwork quilts for children's beds as her contribution. They represented many hours of painstaking toil. In a Young Women's Christian association a director one year secured over 300 garments from a group of young girls who were able to do little more than support themselves. The director happened to mention that there was an orphan asylum in the city which specially desired quilts for the smaller children. Acting on this suggestion, one young seamstress told a good many evenings making quilts that were furnished her. A semicircle, cut out at the top, was bound with tape with long ends left to tie. She made 25 of these simple little garments in the evenings of a hot summer, thereby greatly aiding the matron of the local orphan asylum in keeping her young charges in order. Other girls made little squares of out-going flannel, for infants, and small children some simple little frocks and other garments.

Sometimes a woman, charitably disposed, is able to collect enough garments during her summer vacation to make her a director. Pleasant porch parties can be employed in the making of garments for the poor if the proper start be given them. There is always a demand for warm, knitted articles, and many of these can be made at odd moments, if the example of Queen Mary is followed. But while the desirability of doing personal work for the poor is indisputable, there are thousands of women who find they have not time to put in a single stitch. For these the real work garments sold in such profusion everywhere are more easily obtainable and with the more expensive, more modern garments are in greatest need. The smallest articles of apparel will be gladly accepted. It is desirable to cover that the garments are all made in parts of like quality and style as where a single garment is given an extra one or two for changing. It is essential to its usefulness.

An Electric Washer Will Please Mother

Any woman who has a town where there is no branch of the New York guild, can readily send full directions for organizing one by addressing the national office, which is located at 1716 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. Through the influence of American women, foreign organizations having the same purpose have been established in Scotland, Canada and France. The English organization has the active cooperation of the government, and is provided with a permanent home.

TOWNSHIP COUNTY SCHOOL FAIR

Having adopted 26 children during the late Joseph Himmelman, aged 57, a prosperous farmer of Marshville, N. J., has established a unique record. While he never had the entire 26 under his roof at one time, he frequently had he have six or seven. Two-thirds of them are now in business for themselves, and the others are also good citizens.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Has a dietetic value greatly beyond the conception of anyone who has not used it. It will make your food of a delicious taste, a moist and keeping quality, and a digestibility not to be obtained from other baking powders or leavening agents.

But more important than all else, Dr. Price's Baking Powder, being a pure, cream of tartar powder, carries only healthful qualities to the food no alum, no lime phosphate.

It is noticeable that the advertisements of the low priced (10c., 15c., 20c., 25c. per pound) baking powders give no information as to ingredients. The fact that such powders are made from alum is stubbornly concealed, their proprietors going so far as to issue prohibitory contracts against exposure in the newspapers.

Is this because the alum people know that publicity would stop their business? Of course no prudent housekeeper would use an article of food in which she learned there had been concealed an unhealthy ingredient.
